

to Okinawa to dive in the Kerama sea on 4/15-18

supported by diving shop COCO-OCEAN

I always get on the rapid express μ -Sky.

This time I transferred at Konan for Centrair

I left my home at 5:40

Kashiwamori 6:11 (start)

Konan 6:26 (transfer)

Centrair 7:20 (arrival)

This photo shows the inside of μ

-Sky. You can see a bullet train Shinkansen running parallel to μ -sky through the window. It's near Osu station..

In Centrair airport after check in, I took a late breakfast at the restaurant looking down over the check counters floor..

Fly to Okinawa

ANA301 took off the airport at 8:40am on time.

I was soon above the Shima Peninsula.

We can see Mie-jima island.

We can see the estuary of Kumano River.
The Kumano-gawa River is a dominate landmark in the Kumano region running from North to South down the center of the Kii Peninsula.

I'm now flying above the east part of Okinawa island.

In Naha city

This time on the first day of my trip, I visited Fukushu-en Garden.

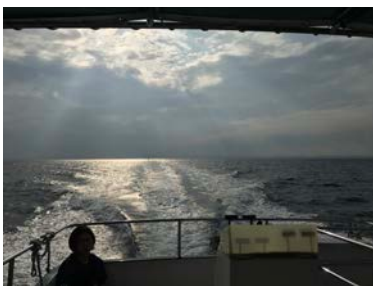

Fukushu-en Garden is an authentic, walled Chinese garden laid out by Chinese and Okinawan gardeners and symbolizes Okinawa's historic trade and cultural links with the Chinese mainland. I got relieved in this calm greenery garden. It was just after visiting Shanghai when I came here so I felt familiar with the building and I remembered that travel in China.

Dive in Kerama

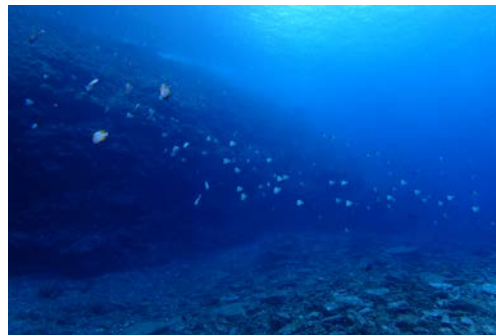

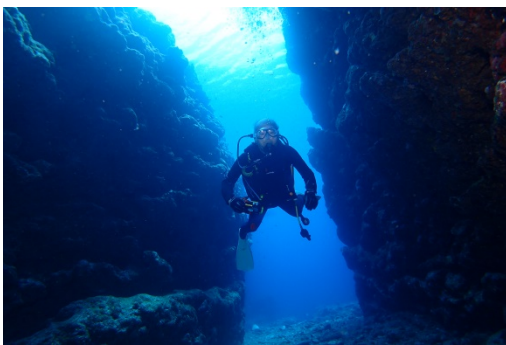

This is drift-diving.

I was absent from this team because I felt cold in previous diving.

They dive in the sea current, being flowed with the current for some time, and go up to the surface of the sea, and were picked by the boat.

I followed the turtle, and I saw Nimo and many other marine creatures.

In Naha city

Return to Centrair

